"This War Will End When We Win"

declared War Secretary Baker last week, and almost on the same day, Lloyd George announced that he could "see no road to peace but in victory."

Without ignoring any of the shadows in the outlook, Allied observers are unanimous in their conviction that the Central Powers are cracking under the strain. In proof of this they point to the recent brilliantly successful French offensive on the Aisne front, when in one day's fighting General Petain's troops advanced two miles on a six-mile front, capturing 8,000 prisoners and 70 big guns; to the ceaseless methodical advance of the Ypres wedge by Haig's steam-roller tactics; to the heavy toll taken of Germany's naval forces by the Russian fleet in the Gulf of Riga battle, when fifteen German war-ships were put out of action; to the capture by the French of four super-Zeppelins in one day; to Germany's heavy withdrawal of troops from the Riga front to make possible an Austrian offensive against Italy; and to the ominous rumors of a growing spirit of mutiny in the German and Austrian fleets.

The leading article in this week's LITERARY DIGEST (November 3d), is a careful summing-up of the news from various quarters and its significance upon the outlook for peace through victory.

"I notice in your last number, a plea for all Americans to help entertain American soldiers by furnishing scrap-books, etc. Having been in this mess some time and talked to a lot of American and Canadian soldiers, I would like to retort. If you want the soldiers to be happy in hospitals and out, make it easier for them to get ahold of the best paper published. My copy of 'THE DIGEST' goes to twenty-five men, at least.
